This lovely simple and unspoilt village church is grade 11* listed and lies in the Corvedale at the foot of Clee Hill. It is mainly Norman, while the tower dates from 1720. Inside the south doorway are two sheela na gigs and there are unusual tomb-recesses.
 Shropshire Hills AONB Pilgrim Trail

Located on the Welsh Marches border, the Shropshire Hills Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty is an ideal area to take in the landscape on a pilgrimage, as well the magnificent views along the way.

Shropshire Hills AONB is a living landscape, loved by locals and visitors alike for its quality of environment, rich history, and for walking, relaxation and inspiration.

Covering almost a quarter of Shropshire, this 7-day trail takes in a number of Shropshire Churches Tourism group churches throughout.

With the use of public transport (train or local bus) between Ludlow and Craven Arms, the Shropshire Hill AONB Pilgrim Trail is a circular route that will be enjoyed by anyone walking for spiritual revival, resting in Churches and taking advantage of the local hospitality along the way.
